PROHIBITION CZAR FAVORS LEGALIZING BEER

ANDREWS BELIEVES MODIFICATION MAY HELP ENFORCEMENT

Refuses To Commit Himself Regarding Legal Wines

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 14.—L. C. Andrews, federal prohibition czar, today came out in favor of legalizing beer of low alcoholic content.

Testifying before the senate prohibition investigating committee, Andrews said he believed modification of the Volstead act to encourage mild alcoholic beverages would aid enforcement of prohibition.

Andrews in answer to a question confirming his opinion to strict government supervision of beer distribution said:

"I think that would aid law enforcement."

The question was put by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who explained that the beer would be sold only in hotels and restaurants with meals and for home consumption.

Andrews refused to commit himself regarding wines.

"I don't think palatable wines can be made which would not be intoxicating," Andrews said.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—News-papers on prohibition, showing a total of 2,145,848 persons favoring modification of Volsteadism and 697,083 for the act and the eighth amendment, are representative of the sentiment of the people.

Col. Julian Codman, wet prosecutor told the senate prohibition committee today.

Codman summed up results of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, Hearst, Pittsburgh Sun and other polls and asserted that the N. E. A. poll, the largest taken in 326 cities and towns did not "represent only the east" a charge which he said had been lodged against many of the polls.

A still set up on a ginger ale box, was brought into the crowded committee room by capitol police, at Codman's request to demonstrate how simple it was to make liquor.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews eyed the still disdainfully when he came into the room and took the stand. It is against the law to possess a still but he made no effort to seize it.

The wet case will start tomorrow upon evidence of the billion dollar New York bootleg traffic, increased drunkenness among children and its plea of a federal district attorney for modification of the dry law Col. Codman announced.

CHIEF JUSTICE TO ADDRESS MASONIC CLUB HERE TUESDAY

Carrington T. Marshall, Columbus, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, will deliver the keynote address at an open meeting of the Xenia Masonic Club in the new Masonic Temple next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, it is announced.

An invitation is being extended to all Masons, their families and friends to attend the meeting. Subject of Judge Marshall's address has not been announced.

Club officers announce a musical program has been arranged. Refreshments will be in charge of Jacob Kany.

IMPORTS INCREASE OVER U. S. EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Imports continued to increase over exports for the United States during March, giving this country an "unfavorable" foreign trade balance of $70,000,000, the commerce committee reported today.

A year ago the United States had a March favorable balance of $68,000,000.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover attributed the reverse in world trade to decline in the export value of cotton and the increase in the value of raw products from abroad, such as rubber.

WHITE AND NEGRO WORKERS IN RIOT

LODI, N. J., April 14.—Racial encounters entered the textile strike today and police were called to quell a riot between white strikers and negro mill workers.

Eight men were arrested.

Several men were bruised and one of the strikers suffered a knife or razor wound on the head.

GUARD LYONS AS TRIAL OPENS

Precautions Taken To Prevent Escape Of Alleged Slayer—Three Figures In Background
Promise Drama At Trial.

NORWALK, O., April 14.—With the states demand for the death penalty ringing in his ears, James Lyons, characterized as the "Gerard Chapman of Ohio" was placed on trial here today for the alleged murder of Special Agent Frank E. McGrath, of the American Railway Express Company.

The court room into which the alleged killer was led, resembled a miniature arsenal as heavily armed deputies, railway police and special officers took up posts at the exits as a precaution against a possible repetition of Lyons' escape from jail.

The youthful desperado surrendered voluntarily Monday night, seventeen hours after he broke jail and fled to the home of his wife, who persuaded him to surrender even though it may cost him his life.

McGrath was shot to death February 18, when he sought to arrest James and his brother, Leonard, on charges of looting the Norwalk express office. The brothers were captured after James shot, and wounded Police Chief Douglas McKenzie, of Alpena.

The trial bade fair to unfold drama, tense with human emotion with three women—a wife, a mother and a spurned sweetheart—fighting for or against conviction of the young gangster.

The rejected sweetheart is Helen McCarthy, of Toledo, who will testify for the state. Lyons was believed to have fled to her for temporary refuge after the killing of McGrath.

The mother—Mrs. Clair Lyons—will stand by "her boy because he surrendered voluntarily—corroborating his innocence."

The most dramatic figure, perhaps will be the wife whom Lyons was accused of deserting for Miss McCarthy. Lyons had not seen her for nine months, until he walked from the jail here Monday morning. They affected a reconciliation, according to Lyons' own story and the youth, although knowing he may be executed, returned to jail.

It was not known definitely whether the woman will testify. Lyons has refused to reveal her whereabouts and her true identity. He has said, however, that she will testify "in an emergency."

The board charged, in effect, that contrary to his affidavit, the Rev. Troke, had been married twice, that his first wife whom he married in Iowa, died and that his second wife, Mrs. Estella Troke, divorced him on Sept. 21, 1925, in Yellow Medicine County, Minnesota.

The revelation that the Rev. Troke had been ousted on the eve of his marriage to Miss Estella A. Hempstead, a former Oberlin University Coed, on charges of making a false affidavit in obtaining the marriage license, was made in a statement issued by the church board here.

RENEW SEARCH FOR MISSING FLYERS

CAIRO, April 14.—Captain Estevez, the Spanish flyer, who has been missing in Palestine since Monday, still was unaccounted for today, according to Royal Air Service officials, who are directing the aerial search for the Spaniard and his mechanic.

There is no confirmation here of the Baghdad report that Estevez had been found about 200 miles from Amman, Palestine. It is believed the report refers to the discovery yesterday of Estevez's deserted plane.

Captain Estevez is the leader of the Spanish flight from Madrid to Tokyo, by way of Manila. In the hop from Cairo to Baghdad, he came down in the desert and has not reported since.

PROHIBITION AND WORLD COURT WILL BE TARGETS OF ILLINOIS CAMPAIGN

Democrats Nominate "Wet" Candidate And Republicans Select Anti-Administration Man For Senatorship

CHICAGO, April 14.—Prohibition and the world court are to be the chief objects of attack during the bitter senatorial campaign that Illinois is facing as result of yesterday's state wide primaries.

Democrats of this state voted their satisfaction with the "dripping wet" platform of their boss, George Brennan, naming him as their candidate for the United States senate. Brennan's greatest appeal for votes will be made on the fact that he favors—not modification but repeal of the prohibition laws.

Republicans, in a primary contest of even greater national importance refused to endorse the present senator, William R. McKinley, a so-called Coolidge Republican, voiced their disapproval of the world court, and selected Col. Frank L. Smith as their candidate. Smith will not discuss prohibition but will ask for votes on his promise to fight the court to the very limit.

Boss Brennan's nomination had appeared so certain from the start that the Democratic primary attracted only passing attention within the state.

It was in the other fight, where the Republicans were selecting between McKinley and Smith as their candidate to defeat Brennan, that the real interest centered.

Smith swept Chicago with ease, surprised his most loyal supporters by piling up more votes than McKinley in the down-state counties, and rode to victory by a majority that may reach 100,000.

McKinley had asked the Republicans of Illinois to return him to the senate on his record as a supporter of President Coolidge, the national administration.

The Republicans of Illinois chose Smith.

Aside from the Smith landslide the Republican party in Illinois voted almost solidly "regular."

McKinley chose his country estate, Ridgemoor Farm, Wickliffe, for the scene of his demise. His body was found in the bathroom by a domestic. One hand clutched a German Luger pistol. The bullet had penetrated his head, passed through the bathroom door, the wall of an adjacent room and the outer wall of the house.

Mrs. McKinley who was prostrated by her husband's death, said he had been in no health for the past year. He had only recently recovered from a siege of influenza she said.

McKinley had spent most of the past year at his luxurious country estate, having retired as president of the McKinley Steel Company in 1925.

When found, McKinley was seated in a chair.

The McKinleys have three children, Elizabeth, Price Jr., and Richard. The latter is one of the premier horsemen of the Chagrin Valley Hunt Club.

A brother, George, resides at Bessemer, Mich., and a sister, Mrs. Jas. Erskine Neal, widow of Col. Neal, one time consul to Liverpool, also survives.

Socially the McKinley family was one of the most prominent in Cleveland. McKinley was a member of several exclusive clubs and during the Chagrin Valley Hunt Club's annual shows, many blooded horses from the McKinley stables were featured.

Three days later he came to her home and tried to break down the door. That morning he shot himself. Mrs. Williams then decided that her only duty was to file bigamy charges.

MILLIONAIRE ENDS LIFE; START PROBE TO REVEAL MOTIVE

Head Of Socially Prominent Family Kills Himself.

CLEVELAND, O., April 14.—Authorities today began a rigid investigation to determine some motive for the suicide of Price McKinley, 63, millionaire steel and mining operator and prominent clubman who shot and killed himself last yesterday.

McKinley chose his country estate, Ridgemoor Farm, Wickliffe, for the scene of his demise. His body was found in the bathroom by a domestic. One hand clutched a German Luger pistol. SOLDIERS RESTORE ORDER AFTER DEATH MARS ELECTION DAY

Quiet Of Several Months
Broken By Gun
Play

By United Press
HERRIN, Ill., April 14.—Daylight and the tramp of soldiers feet today dispelled fear of further violence in riot-ridden Herrin.

The city which has been named "bloody" for its frequent massacres and riots where only yesterday six men were slain in a Main St. gun battle, brought about by an election feud, today was a peace—a peace which might not exist were it not for the company of state guardsmen patrolling the streets.

Night found the city deserted. Herrin counted her dead, four Klansmen and three anti-Klansmen had been killed in the fight, went home to its evening meal and quietly stole away to bed—another bloody chapter in its history recorded.

Dawn found the city awake. Militia stepped briskly from their homes and started off to their strips and their shafts. Business men came down and opened their stores and shops.

Electoral officials appeared to finish counting yesterday's ballots.

But everywhere there were soldiers, tramping their posts with rifles at their shoulders. No gatherings of men or of women were permitted. Any one could go as he chose but none was allowed to loiter with friends to discuss the events of yesterday.

It was nothing new to Herrin. have troops in its midst. The khaki-clad sentries have patrolled the city streets many times before. Their "move on" orders have been heard again and again. But this was the first time in fourteen months that Herrin had come so unruly that outside forces were sent to keep the peace. Herrin was supposed to have been "converted" through the evangelistic efforts of the Rev. Howard Williams, an itinerant minister who had drawn many a hard-faced miner down "the sawdust trail" to state a new life. It was difficult for many of the more orderly citizens to realize that their city again must be named "bloody."

Over in the city hospital the was evidence of the most gruesome—six bodies. The men had died there, one by one, after they had been picked up from the street, where they fell. They had been known in Herrin as: Alden Mack Sizemore; his brother Ben Sizemore; Harlan Forster, a former Herrin Klansman; Carroll Weaver, Charles Briggs and A. E. Treadwell—these ten deputy sheriffs and anti-Klansmen.

John Smith, a garage owner at an election official apparent was the central figure in the slaying but he escaped with only a slight injury.

As dictator of all the Klans forces in Williamson County Smith was understood to have been marked for death. When he became active in challenging voters, particularly a number of Italians, the trouble started.

Trouble passed over for several hours, however, until late in the afternoon when two automobiles filled with anti-Klan leaders came to a stop in front of Smith's garage and opened fire upon him. He was only scratched.

The assailants drove on and did not reappear until after a company of state guards had been sent to Herrin from Carbondale a nearby city.

With troops within the city limits, the anti-Klansmen swooped down the main street, pulled in front of the Masonic Hall a started firing at a group of men congregated along the curb. The fire was returned and a running battle up and down the principal street of Herrin proceeded. When the smoke of battle had cleared away, the six men were found mortally wounded.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

MARY WAITE shares two rooms with CELIA STEWART, and works as a stenographer and general assistant in the office of STANLEY BLAKE. Mary has few friends, but Celia goes out frequently in the evening, though she does not tell with whom. Mary finds that Celia and Stanley see each other frequently, although Stanley is married. Mary goes to supper with PAT HAMILTON, whom she has met before but whose attentions she has refused because he is married, and sees Celia and Stanley at another table. Mrs. Blake learns that Stanley is going around with some girl, and thinks it is Mary. She telephones Mary, threatening to make trouble unless Mary leaves town at once. Celia disappears. Mary sees Hamilton again, and he arranges for her to go to New York and work for a friend of his. Mary goes to work in New York for MR. CRANDALL, a wealthy old man, and meets his son WILL CRANDALL, who is very nice to her. She motorizes into the country with Will on Saturday afternoon, and they are stranded on a back road when the car runs out of gas. Mary goes with Will to spend the week end with his brother and sister-in-law, Jim and Virginia Randall. Old Mr. Crandall is taken ill, and Will and Jim return to town. Mary goes to the beach with Virginia and there meets Celia again. Mary hears from Pat Hamilton, who says that if she will do some stenographic work for him she can cancel her debt to him. She returns to New York. Hamilton persuades her to break her engagement to Will Crandall.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT
XLVI—HAMILTON'S WAY

MARY had very little money. Fortunately, the need of it forced her to find work, and having got a position, during the day her work kept her so busy that she had no time to think of Will Crandall.

Her new job was with a magazine; she was one of a number of stenographers, who sat in a large outer office. The magazine was a cheap one, with a huge circulation, and in it were several departments to which people all over the country wrote, asking for advice in their love affairs, asking what their names meant, what their prospects foretold—the letters came by hundreds.

Form letters were sent in reply, with the name of the person to whom the letter was going typed at the top. There were hundreds of these letters, all ready to go out in a cabinet, and one of Mary's duties as selecting the ones—Letter 1 or 2 or 3—that would go to a person, typing in the name and addressing an envelope.

One evening she herself received a letter. Her heart leaped when she recognized Will's writing, although it was so shaky and ran uphill so suddenly that it hardly seemed possible that it could have written it.

"He must still be very weak, to write like that," Mary told herself. She tore the envelope open. Inside it was a key, tied to a tag in which was written an address. Will had scrawled on a sheet of paper, "Studio, left. Please use it," and signed his name.

Mary was radiantly happy as she talked to her work. Any word from Will would have been more than welcome, and this seemed too good to be true.

And that last word, "love"—he had cared for her, then. His heart had not been able to come between them, really, even though they had not so hard.

He had told her once that none of his own people had ever gone to his studio.

"They know that I have one somewhere," he had said, "but they don't want me to admit, and I can't want to have them come into the place where I try to do it. They'd kill it."

He wanted her to go there, though, wanted her to use it!

When she left that office that afternoon she went straight to the studio, taking with her a few packages of food. She would have her dinner there, she told herself; it would be almost like being with Will!

She unlocked the door with the key Will had sent her, and stood quite still for a moment, looking about her. The room she entered was a big, low-ceilinged one; the studio was one of several that had been built over an old, remodeled stable. There was a skylight, and Mary could see that there were other windows in the smaller rooms that had been partitioned off one end of the big one.

She began to walk about, looking eagerly at everything, shaking up the pillows on the wide couch, straightening some of the sketches that were pinned to the walls.

Will's home—the place where he felt more at home than in the huge house occupied by his parents. The home he and she were to have shared together.

"We will live here some day!" she exclaimed aloud. "We'll be married when he gets well, and live here, and he'll paint—it will be wonderful."

She went all through the apartment, and then took off her hat and coat, put on one of Will's painting aprons, and began to dust the rooms. She prepared her dinner; while it was cooking on the small gas stove, she washed the doors of the china cupboard.

Merely being there in Will's home made her feel nearer to him. She felt more sure about the future, more confident that it would not be long before he and she would be married and be free to live the life that they had planned together.

It was late when she went home.

One evening she received a letter.

She wondered if it would not be possible for her to live there at the studio; the more she thought of the plan, the more eager she was to carry it out. After all, Will loved her, would want her to have what was his. And he had sent that key to her, so he must have wanted her to use the studio.

She went to it the next afternoon with her few belongings, and settled down in it contentedly. She could hardly wait to get home from work at night, in order to work about the few rooms, putting them in perfect order. Will might come soon, she told herself; he would be glad to find her there.

When she came home from the office the next day, however, she found that her key would not open the front door. She was still trying to make it fit, unable to believe that she had lost the key, when a man, whom she had not seen before, came up the stairs.

"I'm the janitor here, Miss," he told her, "and I guess I've got a note for you, if you're Miss Mary Waite."

"I'm Miss Waite," she told him, and took the note which he held out to her.

A single glance told her what was in it. It was from Mrs. Crandall.

"I have heard from Mr. Patrick Hamilton that you are occupying some rooms leased by my son," she read. "I do not understand this situation. I have had the lock on the door changed, and after getting your belongings from the rooms—the janitor will unlock the door for you—kindly return to your own home."

Mary sat down on the top step and burst into tears. What an enemy Pat Hamilton could be!

"Too Tired to Move"
HOW often we hear a woman use this expression! She is in a weakened and run-down condition, not fit to do her work. Bravely she struggles on. She becomes nervous and discouraged.

Whether she lives in a luxurious apartment, a cozy bungalow or a crowded city flat, every woman can understand the handicap of poor health. The woman in moderate circumstances suffers more, of course, than her well-to-do friend because she cannot afford to hire help.

In spite of her efforts, her house begins to look neglected. Her children say, "Mother is so cross."

Eagerly she listens when a neighbor tells her of other women who found the road to health and happiness.

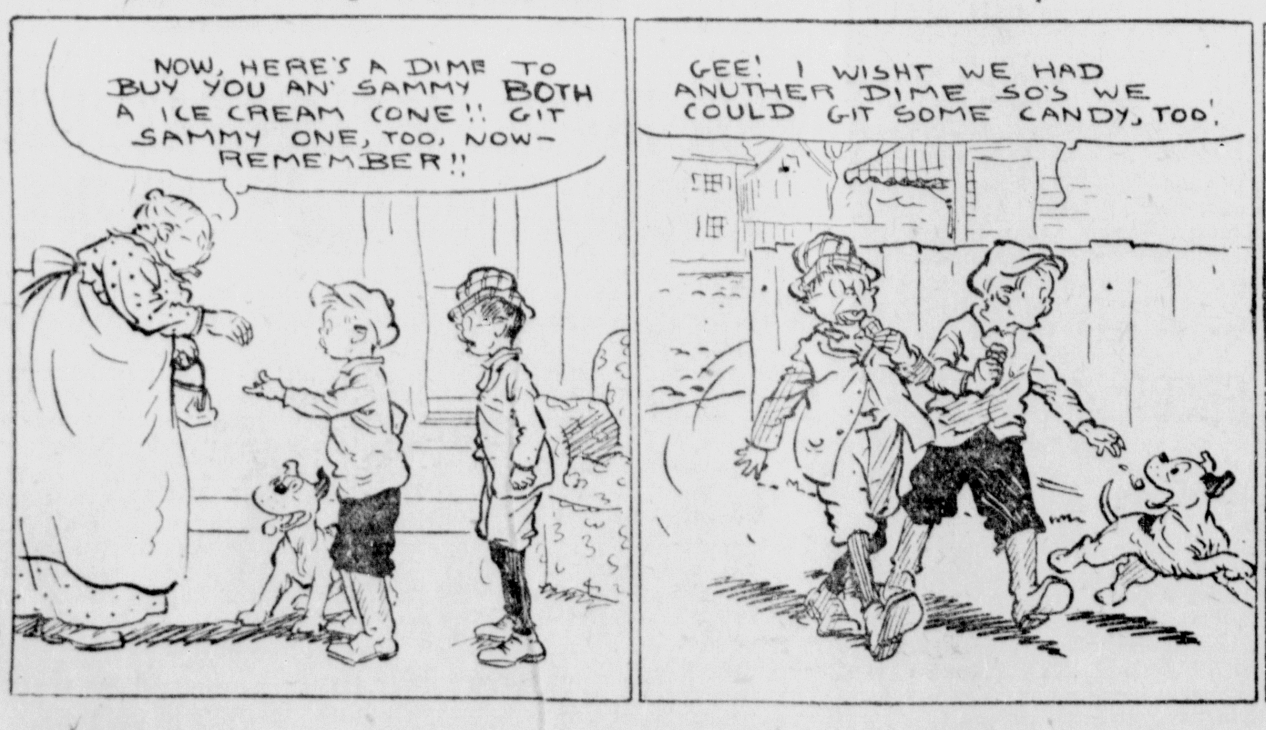

Health! That's the answer to so many of our problems. Without health, a woman cannot make her home the happy haven she dreams of.

Mrs. GOLDIE SHoup of May View, Illinois, is one of the many women who have improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was in a run down condition which caused her much unhappiness.

Mrs. SHoup says, "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried." She declares that she is now in better health than ever before.

Resists all WEATHER!
Out in the field—there's where fence meets the test. How does it stand up under rain and wind, heat and cold, snow and sleet? Even the high-grade copper bearing steel from which Kokomo Pioneer Fence has always been made would not resist the ravages of the elements, without protection and scientific construction.

But Kokomo Pioneer Fence IS protected. Applied by the best known methods, the heavy galvanizing is 99 1/2 per cent pure zinc, and the coil in the line wires takes care of the expansion and contraction occasioned by weather extremes.

There you have the reasons for Kokomo lasting qualities.

CHARMING MUSICALS AT STEELE RESIDENCE.

The members of the Junior Woman's Club and their friends enjoyed a delightful musicale Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. J. D. Steele. The program was presented by a quartette from Troy, all pupils of Mr. Carlton McHenry, former assistant director of the Westminster Choir of Dayton and leader of the Xenia Choral Society which gave the delightful concert under his direction. The members of the quartette are: Mrs. Walter Pearson, soprano; Mrs. Allen Davis, mezzo-soprano; Alfred Brennan, tenor; and Walter Gross, baritone, and they delighted their audience with a beautiful rendition of the lovely song cycle, "In a Persian Garden" whose verses are from the Rubaiyat and whose charming music is the work of Liza Lehmann.

In order to provide a sympathetic atmosphere for the music, Mrs. Robert Bryson, member of the local club, read an excellent paper on Edward Fitzgerald and his well-known translation of the work of Omar Khayyam. As a further background for the music, she read the verses to be sung. The Song Cycle is arranged as follows:

Opening Quartette—"Awake! For the sun, who scatter'd into flight."

Tenor solo—"Before the phantom of false morning died"; Baritone recitative—"Now the New Year reviving old desires"; Tenor solo—"I am indeed is gone with all his rose"; Quartette—"Come, fill the cup"; Baritone solo—"Whether at Naishapur or Babylon"; Mezzo-soprano—"And not a drop that from our cups we throw"; Duet, soprano and tenor—"A book of verses underneath the bough"; Baritone solo—"Myself when young did eagerly frequent"; Mezzo-soprano—"When you and I behind the veil are passed"; Soprano solo—"Why if the soul can fling the dust aside"; Tenor solo—"Yet, ah, that spring should vanish with the rose"; Mezzo soprano solo—"The worldly hope men set their hearts upon"; Soprano solo—"Each morn a thousand roses brings you say"; Quartette—"They say the lion and the lizard keep"; Tenor recitative and solo—"Ah, moon of my delight"; Baritone solo—"As then the tulip for her morning sup"; Closing Quartette—"Yet ah, that spring should vanish with the rose."

From a program of such consistent excellence it is difficult and perhaps scarcely fair to single any of the numbers out for special mention but the lovely opening quartette, the exquisite soprano solos, "Why if the soul can fling the dust aside" and "Each morn a thousand roses brings," the beautiful mezzo-soprano solos "The worldly hope men set their hearts upon" and "When you and I behind the veil are passed" the baritone solo "Myself when young" the duet between the soprano and tenor "A book of verses" the well-known tenor solo "Ah, moon of my delight" and the closing quartette were particularly pleasing.

A large share of the success of the performance rests with Miss Helen Boak, Troy, accompanist, who gave an excellent and difficult rendition of all numbers. The voices all showed excellent quality and splendid training. Mrs. Pearson has a voice of pure lyric quality combined with much warmth and fullness, a birdlike quality which swelled into a deep note at need. She has a sweet and gracious manner which added greatly to the pleasure of her hearers. Mrs. Davis has a beautiful voice of great depth and richness and warmth of color. She sang with perfect ease and her charming manner won her audience. Mr. Brennan and Mr. Gross, too, have extremely pleasing voices and showed the careful training they have received. The warmth and richness of the baritone singing and the delicacy and sweetness of the tenor were important factors in the charm of the program both in the solo and in the ensemble numbers.

It was truly a delightful performance and one which those fortunate enough to hear it would like to hear repeated. Certainly Mr. McHenry has just cause for pride in the results which his careful and skillful training have produced.—M. E. S.

To offset these bad effects, just get a 35-cent bottle of delightful, refreshing "Danderine" at any drug store or toilet counter and just see for yourself how quickly it revives dry, brittle, lifeless, and fading hair. "Danderine" is a dependable tonic and will do wonders for any girl's hair. It nourishes, stimulates and strengthens each single hair, bringing back that youthful gleam, glist and vigorous luxuriance. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears. "Danderine" is pleasant and easy to use.—Adv.

RE-APPRAISAL TEAMS NAMED FOR VILLAGES; MEET APRIL 19

Acting upon recommendations of the various school boards and village councils, County Auditor R. O. Wead has designated four men in each village, one of whom will serve as field man, to conduct the general re-appraisal of real estate in the eight villages in the county this year. This is the second step in the county-wide re-appraisal.

County auditor has called a meeting of the village appraisers for April 19. The meeting will be held at 1 p. m. in the assembly room of the Court House and the appraisers will receive instructions and directions.

When the villages are organized and actual field work is begun, appointment of appraisers for Xenia will be taken up, it is announced. Appraisal work is already under full swing in the various townships.

Miami Twp., is the first to complete actual field work and the township advisory board is now engaged in going over the valuations, revising and checking lists.

In explaining the village appointments, Auditor Wead declared one man will serve as field man and the entire group will sit as an advisory board to adjust values.

JUICE OF LEMON WHITENS THE SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener, softer and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

THE READING HABIT

THAT "a young man should read five hours a day and so acquire a great deal of knowledge" is a recommendation with which those acquainted with Boswell's "Life of Johnson" are familiar, but which, however, it may have been followed in the time of the great literary dictator himself, would seem to be sadly neglected in this modern era. It is to be feared that the prevalence of the spirit of "getting by" with the minimum amount of effort has given but too much reason for the complaint of a college professor that the college man of today has practically no background of general reading.

With the incessant pressure of class periods and the constant temptation to allow all his leisure time to be engrossed with various amusements, the college man has, perhaps, some excuse for his neglect of literature, but those in authority over him, who fail to take the stand taken by a discriminating advertiser in pointing out that books are the foundation of culture, the source of lasting pleasure and the open sesame of modern success, are not only guilty of a grave dereliction of duty so far as the principles of sound pedagogy are concerned, but are also, negatively, it is true, but in effect, robbing young manhood of one of its greatest joys and preparing it, in many cases, for a lonely, friendless and grumpy old age.

It has been alleged, and doubtless with some truth, that the members of modern college teaching staffs are not themselves will-read men, and are therefore not qualified by experience to impress on the students the necessity of cultivating the reading habit. If it's true 'tis pity.

OWN YOUR HOME

Few men and fewer women begin life without the ambition to own a home of their own. A place which in mind at least is to be almost sacred. A castle protected by the law of the land safe from intrusion. Where the family is to be reared; to be adorned and beautified during the vigorous years of life and then truly a haven of refuge in the declining years.

Men and women are the same today as yesterday. Instincts are the same. Inherent qualities are not controlled by changed conditions. Modern life may suggest subterfuges for a home, may make the realization of the desire for a home difficult, but though the subterfuge triumph and the desire fail, the instinct, though stifled is as strong as ever.

There are those who regret that the modern idea suggests placing the home secondary in importance in life. Why a castle, when theatres, dances, card parties and amusements in public places must be attended every night in the week? Too many consider the home with family prayers, family gatherings and a place which is considered habitable several evenings during the week, one which is presided over by some old fogey. The pendulum has swung forward and will swing back. There will come the time when the home owning and home loving instinct will prevail and the home will be reinstated.

TIME TO CLEAN UP

THERE is no "sure sign" of spring, but spring should be a "sure sign" of the arrival of that time for the community to clean up. There is no superstition or prophesying about this clean-up sign.

When warm weather has come to stay (until cold weather returns in the autumn) every owner of property and tenant should instinctively feel it their duty to remove the evidences of winter's ravages and to aid and augment nature in her work of rehabilitation.

Every spring clean-up program should include disposal of winter's accumulation of litter and decayed vegetation, repairing and repainting of buildings, and landscape gardening. Landscape gardening is no longer associated with large estates alone.

Cleanliness about the person or the home costs nothing. A community clean-up need involve no expense, except of a moderate amount of labor on the part of the householders. If there ever were excuses for uncleanness they were removed long ago.

What is the compensation of a community-wide clean-up campaign? It improves the general health of the community by removing deposits that are breeding places of disease germs and disease carrying insects. A clean town is a better place in which to live than one that is unsanitary and unsightly. And the best community advertising is the appearance of being "cleaned-up, painted-up and planted-up."

During the war American towns and cities learned the marvelous possibilities of community organization. There is no better place to use that experience than in a community clean-up drive.

ADVENTURE AWAITS

WHAT unimaginative, apathetic individuals are they who find these dull days sans excitement, adventure, romance, danger, hardship and those "golden" opportunities of gold. They are utterly miserable but their misery is inexcusable.

Do they yearn for exploration? What of the several polar expeditions already launched or in preparation? The Roosevelt expedition into Asia was not without dangers and thrills. Louise Delingette, a French woman, has just completed a trip by motor with her husband through the deserts and jungles of Africa. Another exploring party has been lost in the cannibal country of the Upper Amazon for months.

As it is in answer to the prayers of those who regret they did not live in the days of the "forty-niners" Ontario is now staging a gold rush rivaling in frenzy and hardships those to California and Alaska. In this new scramble for gold the dog sled has replaced the covered wagon of '49 and is playing as important a role as it did in the Klondike.

HOW TO TAKE THE JOY OUT OF YOUR HUSBAND'S LIFE

1906-Twenty Years Ago-1926

Finley Torrence was host at a delightful little affair at his home on N. King St., when he entertained thirty friends in honor of Mr. Kelly, of Cleveland, who is visiting here.

The postmaster has received notice that the order closing the postoffice at Alpha has been rescinded.

Mr. Frank L. Smith, who was formerly engaged here as a clerk at the Florence Hotel arrived in Xenia from Manchester, where he has been employed in a skating rink for several weeks.

Mr. Ben Eckerle went to Dayton by word of illness of his sister.

County Auditor William Dadds left for Sidney to spend some time with friends.

Just Folks

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

NO FAITH

"I have no faith," he said to me, And there was sadness in his eyes.

"No faith!" said I. "That cannot be. Do you believe the sun will rise?"

"Tis dark tonight. No stars are out. You cannot see one gleaming sign. But can you tell me that you doubt That stars and moon again will shine?"

"You say the clouds have hid their light. Science explains the darkness so. And you believe that this is right. But, tell me, do you really know?"

"You have no knowledge that the sun And moon and stars which disappear, Will keep their courses as they run. And yet you plan from year to year."

"You see the sun sink down at night. Nor grieve to see it slip away. You wait tomorrow's coming light. And yet you 'have no faith,' you say."

ELEAZER

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Padgett attended the funeral of their uncle, Mr. Ed Padgett at Wilmington, Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Oglesbee attended the funeral of their cousin, Mr. Frank Hazzard at Wilmington Monday afternoon.

The Misses Ruth and Doris Jenkins, and Miss Cordelia Miller of Dayton, spent the week end with their parents.

Mrs. Samantha Oglesbee is ill with the grip. Friends have received word from Mrs. George Foltz that the Rev. Mr. Foltz is in a hospital in Bellefontaine but is recovering nicely.

add the flour mixture alternately with one-fourth of a cup of sweet, cold milk. Whip the two egg whites stiff and fold these into the batter. Scrape all into a buttered loaf cake pan. The pan I use measures three and three-quarters inches by seven and one-half inches across the bottom and has flaring sides which are two and one-half inches high. When done, the cake is about level with the top of the pan at least it is in the center. I bake it for forty minutes in an oven which is a little hotter than "medium." If you use a Fahrenheit oven thermometer, you know that from 350 to 450 is considered medium (I never let the temperature rise higher than 500 in baking this cake, however).

CHOCOLATE SPICE CAKE
A Bride Reader has written to me for exact and detailed instructions for making a chocolate spice cake. Here they are:

My Original Chocolate Spice Cake: Cream one-fourth cup of butter in a medium-sized yellow crockery bowl. Then rub into it three-quarters of a cup of granulated sugar. Next separate the yolks from the whites of two eggs. Beat the yolks for several minutes, then stir them into the sugar-butter mixture in the bowl. Melt one square of unsweetened cake-chocolate in a cup (I stand the cup in my oven for a few moments), then stir two teaspoons of hot water into the melted chocolate and turn this too into the mixing bowl.

Sift three-quarters of a cup of pastry flour with one teaspoon of baking powder, a pinch of salt, and one-fourth teaspoon each of ground nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves. (It really pays to buy pastry to use in pies and cakes, although many experienced housewives refuse to use it. Ordinary bread flour, however, can be made more like pastry flour by adding two level tablespoons of dry cornstarch powder to each cup of flour used.)

Now beat the batter well, and

ORDER OF RED MEN

Present tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men in Xenia known as Wahoo Tribe No. 41, is a consolidation of the old Wahoo tribe and the tribe later organized here known as Red Jacket Tribe No. 118.

Consolidation was effected October 5, 1916, according to the laws of the great council of Ohio, by J. Bronschweiger, great sachem of the great council of the state. Following officers were installed at that time: Prophet, William Bath; sachem, Daniel A. Smith; senior sagamore, Harry Shoemaker; junior sagamore, Benjamin Jackson; chief of records, S. C. Coates; keeper of wampum, John Shoemaker, and trustees, W. C. Bloom, Thomas Heathcock and William Bath.

Old Wahoo Tribe No. 41 was organized October 29, 1868, by W. Bloom, B. Schlesinger, Paul Weiss, Paul Fetz, John Sanz, George Grauer, J. C. Feurle, Andrew Fisher, George Fisher, Martin Schledt, Henry Elchman, Henry Sonderman and Fred Huehne.

Wahoo tribe's charter members spoke German and the meetings were conducted in the German language until 1911, when the German rituals were exchanged for those printed in English.

Meanwhile, on May 22, 1889, another tribe of Red Men was organized in Xenia, Red Jacket Tribe No. 118 with the following charter members: M. A. Broadstone, W. C. Bloom, Daniel A. Smith, Charles W. Whitmer, John Boots, H. C. Armstrong, H. Grotendick, William Dadds, Ed. Snell, John A. Fifer, E. A. Sanz, Adam Boots, Charles Phillips, George Sanz, William Ellsberry, Wesley Owens, H. P. Lindsay, John A. Cisco, G. W. Jones, W. A. Simons, John Thomas, Harlan Powers, L. E. Spahr, William A. Richardson, H. C. Long, S. R. Bales, John R. Sutton, Reuben Canady, J. A. Carey, A. H. Spahr, W. A. Labron, Frank Smith, Coleman Heaton, Martin Ulery, C. F. Cretors, Samuel Rader, Clint Rader, Walter Campbell and M. A. Walton.

Concrete pavement has a pleasing light gray color that dresses up any street

Property Owners of Bowling Green Like Concrete Streets

More than 3000 American cities and towns from one end of the country to the other have found concrete the ideal street pavement.

They know it withstands the pounding of heavy traffic and that it is always safe to drive on.

They know concrete does away with costly paving repairs.

The first concrete streets in Bowling Green, O., were built in 1914.

Maintenance has been practically nothing. The city now has sixteen concrete streets.

Experience has proved to Bowling Green people that concrete streets give greater value per dollar.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

MODISH MITZI—Not All Small Hats Are Of Felt

BY J. V. JAY

Mitzi reads her mail carefully. She is especially fond of reading the ads. Sometimes when she sees an envelope marked with the name of one of the stores she adorns with her business she is fooled—she finds out that it was only a bill for Dad after all.

This being a rainy morning is an especially good one for reading ads. Two little books and an announcement of someone's opening. All about hats. All about silk and ribbon hats. Mitzi pours herself another cup of coffee to settle her nerves.

Hats always excite her so. And it really seems to be true that all small hats are no longer of felt. Simply swarms of them are of beanie, of faile, of bangles, or of crepe satin. A combination of ribbon in two tones is smart.

They are just as close fitting and even softer than felt. Nothing to pack. Nothing to wear. Just the minimum head covering in a pretty color. No sharp edges, no, but many of them carefully calculated to look so Mitzi's going shopping today after all.

XIX. "THE KICK BACK"

The last exercise I gave you was known as "Head Work." Today's exercise goes back to the
"High Back" which preceded that,
and is performed from a similar position.
Position: Lying on chest, arms
bent, hands resting on floor near
upper chest, palms down.
Exercise: With the legs straight
push body off floor, weight on

Now raise the toes from the floor.
This movement is merely another step after the "High Back."
In that your body was straight, resting on hands and toes. The new exercise adds to this, the raising into the air of both feet.
You will get a lot of fun out of this exercise, particularly when you try to get your toes off the floor with all weight on your hands.
The next exercise you will get
is called "The Sprinter."

From School Teacher
To Great Eminence

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania studied diligently and qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save up enough money to put him thru medical college. He began the practice of medicine in the new oil section of Pa.
He was a student of nature, knew and could easily recognize most of the medicinal plants growing in the woods.
Later, he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., where he launched his favorite remedies and in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land.
Today, the name of this man, Dr. R.
V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known blood medicine and tonic. More than fifty million bottles have been sold in the U. S. If your druggist does not sell the Golden Medical Discovery, in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a trial pkg. of the tablets by sending 10c to the Dr. Pierce Clinic, in

STUDENTS WORKING
ON ATHLETIC FIELD

Weather permitting, work will be resumed shortly by students of
Central High School on Cox Memorial Athletic Field, according to
Superintendent H. C. Pendry.
Students have already started to re-see the football gridiron and it is hoped the field will show a sturdy crop of grass by the opening of the grid season next fall.
Plans of changing the gridiron
to run east and west instead of north and south were entertained
in order to provide a baseball diamond, but these have been discarded as impractical.
Central athletes will cavort at the north end of the field this spring in baseball practice.

SPREADING HAPPINESS

Today, thousands of homes in Ohio are happier because of the U. S. Purple Merchandise plan, by which the money that buys the household supplies also helps largely to furnish the home.

Many wives and mothers have been given the happiness that comes with the possession of fine furniture and house furnishings, rich rugs, lovely lamps, shining silverware, dry goods, ready-to-wear and many other enduring things that make homes cheerful, comfortable and complete—things that, as many tell us, they might not otherwise have enjoyed.

"Not Possible To Classify"

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY
Outside the city rumbles loud,
Inside, now humble, are the proud
To worship Him and sing and pray-
Who goes to church finds peace today.
The door, unlocked, is open wide
To all who care to step inside;
How fine it all would find their way
And rest inside a church today!
Who goes to church finds peace tonight
And joy in psalms that they recite;
The hymns will all their cares destroy.
A trip to church is a trip of joy.
From Seoul, Korea, comes to me a very interesting Korean magazine, with the following, which was written by Choi Hai about 1390 A. D.

"Last year the sun and rain turned out awry, and all the farmers failed to plant their seed. The world dropped down to starvation point, and faces looked through the lines of anxious care. This year again the spring broke endless dry and hands were folded in the scorching sun. The green mess in the well was shriveled up, and red blood marked the morning sky. Along the highways were the starved, the dead, and all the fields lay wasted, bare as bone.

I, in my little hut, lay long asleep, when suddenly I heard the sound of rain. I heard it patter on the famished court, and fall in gems from off the hanging eaves. I start, I awake, I rise in wonder wild. I fling the window wide and mad delight looks out upon the scene. Across the hill the willow tree tops shine, and laughing flowers awake along the sea. All things take on divine shade and fragrance fill the air. I know now that the mind of God thinks of the needs we mortals bear. Out go the ploughs, the harrows, hoes and spades, a presage of abundant crops to come. We thank God for a leaky thatch. I shall forget my hungry mouth and hungry stomach now.

Go to church Sunday. Tomorrow phone an ad.

WOMEN VOTERS MAY CONVERT FLAPPERS TO BE POLITICIANS

By MARK W. CHILDS
ST. LOUIS, April 14.—Conversion of the flapper to a politician of the importance of practical politics constituted the major problem of the program for discussion when the League of Women Voters met here today in its seventh annual convention.

Seven years ago a small group of determined women who believed that the millions just enfranchised by the women's suffrage amendment should be educated to vote intelligently met here to form the League of Women Voters.

Today delegates to the League—now a strong national organization, with branches in virtually every state in the union—returned to consider action on a dozen or more major social problems and review the work of seven years at their annual convention.

Every train bore delegates from state and city branches of the League, now an important factor in the politics of the nation. All shades of opinion will be represented and out of the discussion will be formulated the program of the organization.

Members, as soon as they arrived, registered at convention headquarters and before nightfall close to 1,000 are expected. Conferences today are on "Efficiency in Government," led by Miss Belle Sherwin, national president, "Social Hygiene," "Women in Industry," "Child Welfare," "International Co-operation," and "Living Costs."

Perhaps the most interesting session of the five-day convention will be the effort to "convert" the flapper to a realization of the importance of "practical politics."

Three women who are political "bosses" in their own localities will speak. They are Miss Marie Wing, member of the Cleveland City Council, Mrs. J. Paul Goods, of Chicago, member of the Illinois legislature, and Mrs. John T. Pratt, member of the Board of Aldermen of New York City.

Another important session will be the mass-meeting devoted to the "Progress of International Co-operation Toward Peace," on Sunday. The speakers on that date will be Professor James T. Shotwell, Columbia University, and Chester Rowell, of the University of California, Berkeley, California.

The convention will conclude on Tuesday night with a mass-meeting on the "Political Problems of Economic Groups." Matthew Well, vice president of the A. F. of L. will speak for labor, Ivy Lee, head of a publicity bureau that handles the accounts of many of the wealthiest firms and individ-

After hibernating during the long winter months when the nine-hole course was cloaked with a thick covering of snow, local golfers are already beginning to swarm about the links daily.

Several holes are to be lengthened and greens re-located, it is said. Fairways are also said to be in the best of early-season shape.

is pippin pipe tobacco

THOSE fellows who get so much fun out of a pipe—don't envy them... emulate them! Get yourself a jimmy-pipe and a tidy red tin of Prince Albert. That's what they did, and look at them. Wearing smiles a mile wide. Puffing away on good old P. A. and happy as ducklings in their first rain-storm.

There's no trick about it... no deep, dark secret. P. A. is pippin pipe tobacco, made for pleasure and lots of it. Prince Albert is mellow as moonlight on a silent summer sea. Fragrant as a breeze that filters through apple-blossoms. Cool and sweet in a way that spells comfort to a pipe-smoker.

Not the least of P. A.'s virtues is the kindly way it treats a fellow's tongue. The Prince Albert process cut out bite and parch years ago, thereby opening the gates to smoke-peace for millions of men. No matter how hard you smoke P. A., there is no protest from your tongue or throat.

To make sure that you are not missing the full enjoyment of your pipe, go to the nearest tobacco shop and tell the man you want a tidy red tin of Prince Albert. He knows of hundreds of men that have found the enjoyment that's waiting for you. There's a revelation coming to you with a pipe—and P. A.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

PROHIBITION CZAR FAVORS LEGALIZING BEER

ANDREWS BELIEVES MODIFICATION MAY HELP ENFORCEMENT

Refuses To Commit Himself Regarding Legal Wines

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 14.—L. C. Andrews, federal prohibition czar, today came out in favor of legalizing beer of low alcoholic content.

Testifying before the senate prohibition investigating committee, Andrews said he believed modification of the Volstead act to encourage mild alcoholic beverages would aid enforcement of prohibition.

Andrews in answer to a question confirming his opinion to strict government supervision of beer distribution said:

"I think that would aid law enforcement."

The question was put by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who explained that the beer would be sold only in hotels and restaurants with meals and for home consumption.

Andrews refused to commit himself regarding wines.

"I don't think palatable wines can be made which would not be intoxicating," Andrews said.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Newspaper polls on prohibition, showing a total of 2,145,848 persons favoring modification of Volsteadism and 697,083 for the act and the eighteenth amendment, are representative of the sentiment of the people, Col. Julian Codman, war prosecutor told the senate prohibition committee today.

Codman summed up results of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, Hearst, Pittsburgh Sun and other polls and asserted that the N. E. A. poll, the largest taken in 326 cities and towns did not "represent only the east"—a charge which he said had been lodged against many of the polls.

A still, set up on a ginger ale box, was brought into the crowded committee room by Capitol police, at Codman's request to demonstrate how simple it was to make liquor.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews eyed the still disdaintfully when he came into the room and took the stand. It is against the law to possess a still but he made no effort to seize it.

The case will rest tomorrow upon evidence of the billion dollar New York bootleg traffic, increased drunkenness among children and its plea of a federal district attorney for modification of the dry law Col. Codman announced.

IMPORTS INCREASE OVER U. S. EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Imports continued to increase over exports for the United States during March, giving this country an "unfavorable" foreign trade balance of $70,000,000, the commerce committee reported today.

A year ago the United States had a March favorable balance of $68,000,000.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover attributed the reverse in world trade to decline in the export value of cotton and the increase in the value of raw products from abroad, such as rubber.

NORWALK, O., April 14.—With the states demand for the death penalty ringing in his ears, James Lyons, characterized as the "Gerard Chapman of Ohio" was placed on trial here today for the alleged murder of Special Agent Frank F. McGrath of the American Railway Express Company.

The court room into which the alleged killer was led, resembled a miniature arsenal as heavily armed deputies, railway police and special officers took up posts at the exits as a precaution against a possible repetition of Lyons' escape from jail.

The youthful desperado surrendered voluntarily Monday night, seventeen hours after he broke

DEPOSED PASTOR TO FIGHT CHARGES

COLUMBUS, O., April 14.—The Rev. J. Allen Troke, deposed pastor of the Eastwood Congregational church here, will defy the Central Ohio Association of Congregational churches to unrook him, he told the United Press in a statement at Dayton today.

The revelation that the Rev. Troke had been ousted on the eve of his marriage to Miss Mariam A. Hempstead, a former Oberlin University Co-ed, on charges of making a false affidavit in obtaining the marriage license, was made in a statement issued by the church board here.

The board charged, in effect, that contrary to his affidavit, the Rev. Troke, had been married twice, that his first wife whom he married in Iowa, died and that his second wife, Mrs. Estella Troke divorced him on Sept. 21, 1925, in Yellow Medicine County, Minnesota.

CITY NOT BLAMED FOR CHILD'S DEATH

COLUMBUS, April 14.—Holding that the city of Findlay was not liable for the death of the five year old son of Leonard H. Yazell, the supreme court today overruled Yazell's appeal from a decision in the Hancock County lower courts, asking damages for the child's death.

The boy was killed when he was alleged to have fallen into a reservoir in the city park Yazell claimed the city had not made the "proper precautions" to protect the reservoir from becoming a children's "play ground," thus resulting in his son's death.

CAIRO, April 14.—Captain Estevez, the Spanish flyer, who has been missing in Palestine since Monday, still was unaccounted for today, according to Royal Air Service officials, who are directing the aerial search for the Spaniard and his mechanic.

There is no confirmation here of the Baghdad report that Estevez has been found about 200 miles from Amman, Palestine. It is believed the report refers to the discovery yesterday of Estevez's deserted plane.

Captain Estevez is the leader of the Spanish flight from Madrid to Tokyo, by way of Manila. In the hop from Cairo to Baghdad, he came down in the desert and has not reported since.

HEAD OF SOCIALLY PROMINENT FAMILY KILLS HIMSELF.

CLEVELAND, O., April 14.—Authorities today began a rigid investigation to determine some motive for the suicide of Price McKinley, 63, millionaire steel and mining operator and prominent clubman who shot and killed himself late yesterday.

McKinley chose his country estate, Ridgmore Farm, Wickliffe, for the scene of his demise. His body was found in the bathroom by a domestic. One hand clutched a German Luger pistol. The bullet had penetrated his head, passed through the bathroom door, the wall of an adjacent room and the outer wall of the house.

Mrs. McKinley who was prostrated by her husband's death, said he had been in ill health for the past year. He had only recently recovered from a siege of influenza she said.

McKinley had spent most of the past year at his luxurious country estate, having retired as president of the McKinley Steel Company in 1925.

When found, McKinley was seated in a chair.

The McKinleys have three children, Elizabeth, Price Jr., and Rigdon. The latter is one of the premier horsemen of the Chagrin Valley Hunt Club.

A brother, George, resides at Bessemer, Mich., and a sister, Mrs. J. M. Erskine Neal, widow of Col. Neal, one time consul to Liverpool, also survives.

CHICAGO IN FAVOR OF LEGAL BOXING

CHICAGO, April 14.—Chicago today looked as the scene of some of the leading fights of the year as the votes on the referendum to legalize boxing in the city continued to pour in, literally hand-sliding in favor of boxing.

The majority in favor of the ratification immediately gave rise to hopes among local boxing enthusiasts that the Dempsey-Willis fight will be the first important one held here.

Floyd Mayweather, the only man who claims to have Willie and Dempsey's signatures on the same piece of paper has repeatedly said that Chicago, would be favored as the scene of the match if boxing were legalized.

Medical experts were brought to the military court in an effort to prove the defense contention that Col. Williams was ill on the night of his alleged intoxication.

HECTIC CAREER HAS CLIMAX IN COURT

CLEVELAND, O., April 14.—(UP)—Marriage, separation, reconciliation, another marriage and attempted suicide are meshed in the story of Alfred Williams, 26, whose trial on bigamy charges was to open here today.

The charges against him were lodged by Mrs. Leatha Williams, 26, who married him in Scranton, Pa., in 1921. They have a four year old son. Two years ago, according to Mrs. Williams, she left her husband in Pennsylvania and came to Cleveland. He followed shortly afterward and this time they again spent much time in each other's company.

Then, visiting at his lodging house, she noticed that his placard read "Jack Kendall." In a newspaper she later read of the marriage of a "Jack Kendall" and Miss Gertrude Saver. Visiting the Kendalls, she wormed an admission from the man that he had married again.

Of Bryan Farm

A definite step in carrying out provisions of the will of the late John Bryan, eccentric millionaire, in establishing a fish hatchery and game preserve on the 500-acre tract of land near Yellow Springs belonging to the state by Bryan, was taken Wednesday when twenty-one members of the Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association made personal application with this in view to Charles Truax, state director of agriculture, and Chief Game Warden Thompson at Columbus.

With litigation ended, the Bryan farm is now actually owned by the state.

Accompanying the Greene County party, was a large delegation from the Clark County association headed by the representative of that county.

SOLDIERS RESTORE ORDER AFTER DEATH MARS ELECTION DAY

Quiet Of Several Months
Broken By Gun
Play

By United Press
HERRIN, Ill., April 14.—Daylight and the tramp of soldiers feet today dispelled fear of further violence in riotous Herrin.

The city which has been named "bloody" for its frequent massacres and riots where only yesterday six men were slain in a Main St. gun battle, brought about by an election feud, today was a peace—a peace which might not exist were it not for the company of state guardsmen patrolling the streets.

Night found the city deserted. Herrin counted her dead, four Klansmen and three anti-Klansmen had been killed in the fight, went home to its evening mood and quietly stole away to be another bloody chapter in its history recorded.

Dawn found the city awake. Men stepped briskly from the home and started off to their strip and their shafts. Business men came down and opened their stores and shops.

Election officials appeared to finish counting yesterday's ballots. But everywhere there were soldiers, tramping their posts with rifles at their shoulders. No gatherings of men or of women were permitted. Any one could come as he chose but none was allowed to loiter with friends to discuss the events of yesterday.

It was nothing new to Herrin have troops in its midst. The khaki-clad sentries have patrolled these same streets many times before. "Their move on" orders have been heard again and again. But this was the first time in fourteen months that Herrin had come so unruhly that outside forces were sent to keep the peace. Herrin was supposed to have been "converted" through the evangelistic efforts of the Rev. Howard Williams, an itinerant minister who had drawn many a hard-faced man down "the sawdust trail" to state a new life. It was difficult for many of the more orderly citizens to realize that their city again must be named "bloody."

Over in the city hospital there was evidence of the most gruesome—six bodies. The men had died there, one by one, after they had been picked up from the street, where they fell. They had been known in Herrin as: Alden Mac Sizemore; his brother Ben Sizemore; Harlan Forster, brother of a former Herrin police chief—these three Klansmen; Carroll Weaver, Charles Briggs and A. E. Trudwell—these two deputy sheriffs and anti-Klan men.

John Smith, a garage owner and an election official apparently was the central figure in the riot but he escaped with only a slight injury.

A dictator of all the Klans forces in Williamson county Smith was understood to have been marked for death. When he became active yesterday in challenging voters, particularly a number of Italians, the trouble started.

Trouble passed over for several hours, however, until late in the afternoon when two automobiles filled with anti-Klan leaders came in from the north. In front of Smith's garage and opened fire upon him. He was only scratched and escaped.

The assailants drove on and did not reappear until after a company of state guards had been sent to Herrin from Carbondale a nearby city.

With troops within the city limits, the anti-Klansmen swooped down the main street, pulled in front of the Masonic Hall a started firing at a group of men congregated along the curb. The fire was returned down the principal street of Herrin proceeded. When the smoke of battle cleared away, the six men were found mortally wounded.

No further outbreaks were anticipated so long as the troops remained.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

MARY WAITE shares two rooms with CELIA STEWART, and works as a stenographer and general assistant in the office of STANLEY BLAKE. Mary has many friends, but Celia goes out frequently in the evening, though she does not tell with whom. Mary finds that Celia and Stanley see each other frequently, although Stanley is married. Mary goes to supper with PAT HAMILTON, whom she has met before but whose attentions she has refused because he is married, and sees Celia and Stanley at another table. Mrs. Blake learns that Stanley is going around with some girl, and thinks it is Mary. She telephones Mary, threatening to make trouble unless Mary leaves town at once. Celia disappears. Mary sees Hamilton again, and he arranges for her to go to New York and work for a friend of his. Mary goes to work in New York for MR. CRANDALL, a wealthy old man, and meets his son WILL CRANDALL, who is very nice to her. She motors into the country with Will on Saturday afternoon, and they are stranded on a back road when the car runs out of gas. Mary goes with Will to spend the week end with his brother and sister-in-law, Jim and Virginia Crandall. Old Mr. Crandall is taken ill, and Will and Jim return to town. Mary goes to the beach with Virginia and there meets Cecelia again. Mary hears from Pat Hamilton, who says that if she will do some stenographic work for him she can cancel her debt to him. She returns to New York. Hamilton persuades her to break her engagement to Will Crandall.

XLVI—HAMILTON'S WAY

MARY had very little money, fortunately; the need of it forced her to find work, and having got a position, during the day her work kept her so busy that she had no time to think of Will Crandall.

Her new job was with a magazine; she was one of a number of stenographers, who sat in a large outer office. The magazine was a cheap one, with a huge circulation, and in it were several departments to which people all over the country wrote, asking for advice in their love affairs, asking what their names meant, what their horoscopes foretold—the letters came in by hundreds.

VIOLET DARE

One evening she received a letter. Her heart leaped when she recognized Will's writing, although it was so shaky, and so spelled so oddly that it hardly seemed possible that he could have written it. "He must still be very weak, to write like that," Mary told herself as she tore the envelope open. Inside it was a key, tied to a tag on which was written an address. Will had scrawled on a sheet of paper, "Studio key. Please use it," and signed his name. Mary was radiantly happy as she talked to her work. Any word from Will would have been more than welcome, and this seemed too good to be true.

And that last word, "love"—he had cared for her, then; his parents had not been able to come between them, really, even though they had tried so hard.

He had told her once that none of his own people had ever gone to his studio.

"They know that I have one somewhere," he had said, "but they don't want me to paint, and I can't go to have them come into the place where I try to do it. They'd kill it."

He wanted her to go there, though, wanted her to use it!

When she left that office that morning she went straight to the

One evening she received a letter.

She wondered if it would not be possible for her to live there at the studio; the more she thought of the plan, the more eager she was to carry it out. After all, Will loved her, would want her to have what was his. And he had sent that key to her, so he must have wanted her to use the studio.

She went to it the next afternoon with her few belongings, and settled down in it contentedly. She could hardly wait to get home from work at night, in order to work about the few rooms, putting them in perfect order. Will might come soon, she told herself, he would be glad to find her there.

When she came home from the office the next day, however, she found that her key would not open the front door. She was still trying to make it fit, unable to believe that the lock on the door had been changed, when a man whom she had not seen before came up the stairs. "I'm the janitor here, Miss," he told her, "and I guess I've got a note for you, if you're Miss Mary Waite."

"I'm Miss Waite," she told him, and took the note which he held out to her.

A single glance told her what was in it. It was from Mrs. Crandall. "I have heard from Mr. Patrick Hamilton that you are occupying some rooms leased by my son," she read. "I do not understand this situation. I have had the lock on the door changed, and after getting your belongings from the rooms—the janitor will unlock the door for you kindly return to your own home."

Mary sat down on the top step and burst into tears. What an enemy Pat Hamilton could be!

"Too Tired to Move"

HOW often we hear a woman use this expression! She is in a weakened and run-down condition, not fit to do her work. Bravely she struggles on. She becomes nervous and discouraged.

Whether she lives in a luxurious apartment, a cozy bungalow or a crowded city flat, every woman can understand the handicap of poor health. The woman in moderate circumstances suffers more, of course, than her well-to-do friend because she cannot afford to hire help.

In spite of her efforts, her house begins to look neglected. Her children say, "Mother is so cross."

Eagerly she listens when a neighbor tells her of other women who found the road to health and happiness.

Health! That's the answer to so many of our problems. Without health, a woman cannot make her home the happy haven she dreams of.

Mrs. GOLDIE SHOUR of May View, Illinois, is one of the many women who have improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was in a run down condition which caused her much unhappiness.

Mrs. SHOUR says, "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried." She declares that she is now in better health than ever before.

THE READING HABIT

That a young man should read five hours a day and so acquire a great deal of knowledge is a recommendation with which those acquainted with Boswell's "Life of Johnson" are familiar, but which, however, it may have been followed in the time of the great literary dictator himself, would seem to be sadly neglected in this modern era. It is to be feared that the prevalence of the spirit of "getting by" with the minimum amount of effort has given but too much reason for the complaint of a college professor that the college man of today has practically no background of general reading.

With the incessant pressure of class periods and the constant temptation to allow all his leisure time to be engrossed with various amusements, the college man has, perhaps, some excuse for his neglect of literature, but those in authority over him, who fail to take the stand taken by a discriminating advertiser in pointing out that books are the foundation of culture, the source of lasting pleasure and the open sesame of modern success, are not only guilty of a grave dereliction of duty so far as the principles of sound pedagogy are concerned, but are also, negatively, it is true, but in effect, robbing young manhood of one of its greatest joys and preparing it, in many cases, for a lonely, friendless and grumpy old age.

It has been alleged, and doubtless with some truth, that the members of modern college teaching staffs are not themselves will-read men, and are therefore not qualified by experience to impress on the students the necessity of cultivating the reading habit. If it's true 'tis pity.

OWN YOUR HOME

Few men and fewer women begin life without the ambition to own a home of their own. A place which in mind at least is to be almost sacred. A castle protected by the law of the land safe from intrusion. Where the family is to be reared; to be adorned and beautified during the vigorous years of life and then truly a haven of refuge in the declining years.

Men and women are the same today as yesterday. Instincts are the same. Inherent qualities are not controlled by changed conditions. Modern life may suggest subterfuges for a home, may make the realization of the desire for a home difficult, but though the subterfuge triumph and the desire fail, the instinct though stifled is as strong as ever.

There are those who regret that the modern idea suggests placing the home secondary in importance in life. Why a castle, when theatres, dances, card parties and amusements in public places must be attended every night in the week? Too many consider the home with family prayers, family gatherings and a place which is considered habitable several evenings during the week, one which is presided over by some old fogey. The pendulum has swung forward and will swing back. There will come the time when the home owning and home loving instinct will prevail and the home will be reinstated.

TIME TO CLEAN UP

THERE is no "sure sign" of spring, but spring should be a "sure sign" of the arrival of that time for the community to clean up. There is no superstition or prophesying about this clean-up sign.

When warm weather has come to stay (until cold weather returns in the autumn) every owner of property and tenant should instinctively feel it their duty to remove the evidences of winter's ravages and to aid and augment nature in her work of rehabilitation.

Every spring clean-up program should include disposal of winter's accumulation of litter and decayed vegetation, repainting and repainting of buildings, and landscape gardening. Landscape gardening is no longer associated with large estates alone.

Cleanliness about the person or the home costs nothing. A community clean-up need involve no expense, except of a moderate amount of labor on the part of the householders. If there ever were excuses for uncleanness they were removed long ago.

What is the compensation of a community-wide clean-up campaign? It improves the general health of the community by removing deposits that are breeding places of disease germs and disease carrying insects. A clean town is a better place in which to live than one that is unsanitary and unsightly. And the best community advertising is the appearance of being "cleaned-up, painted-up and planted-up."

During the war American towns and cities learned the marvelous possibilities of community organization. There is no better place to use that experience than in a community clean-up drive.

ADVENTURE AWAITS

WHAT unimaginative, apathetic individuals are they who find these dull days sans excitement, adventure, romance, danger, hardship and those "golden" opportunities of gold. They are utterly miserable but their misery is inexcusable.

Do they yearn for exploration? What of the several polar expeditions already launched or in preparation? The Roosevelt expedition into Asia was not without dangers and thrills. Louise Delingette, a French woman, has just completed a trip by motor with her husband through the deserts and jungles of Africa. Another exploring party has been lost in the cannibal country of the Upper Amazon for months.

As it is answer to the prayers of those who regret they did not live in the days of the "forty-niners" Ontario is now staging a gold rush rivaling in frenzy and hardships those to California and Alaska. In this new scramble for gold the dog sled has replaced the covered wagon of '49 and is playing as important a role as it did in the Klondike.

NO FAITH

"I have no faith," he said to me, And there was sadness in his eyes.

"No faith!" said I. "That cannot be.

Do you believe the sun will rise?

"Tis dark tonight. No stars are out. You cannot see one gleaming sign. But can you tell me that you doubt That stars and moon again will shine?

"You say the clouds have hid their light. Science explains the darkness so. And you believe that this is right. But, tell me, do you really know?

"You have no knowledge that the sun And moon and stars which disappear. Will keep their courses as they run. And yet you plan from year to year.

"You see the sun sink down at night. Nor grieve to see it slip away. You wait tomorrow's coming light. And yet you 'have no faith,' you say."

ON Greene County History

ORDER OF RED MEN

Present tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men in Xenia known as Wahoo Tribe No. 41, is a consolidation of the old Wahoo tribe and the tribe later organized here known as Red Jacket Tribe No. 118.

Consolidation was effected October 5, 1916, according to the laws of the great council of Ohio, by J. Brown Schweiger, great sachem of the great council of the state. Following officers were installed at that time: Prophet, William Bath; sachem, Daniel A. Smith; senior sagamore, Harry Shoemaker; junior sagamore, Benjamin Jackson; chief of records, S. C. Coates; keeper of wampum, John Shoemaker, and trustees, W. C. Bloom, Thomas Heathcock and William Bath.

Old Wahoo Tribe No. 41 was organized October 29, 1868, by W. Bloom, B. Schlesinger, Paul Weiss, Paul Fetz, John Sanz, George Grauer, J. C. Feurle, Andrew Fisher, George Fisher, Martin Schiedt, Henry Elchman, Henry Sonderman and Fred Huehne.

Wahoo tribe's charter members spoke German and the meetings were conducted in the German language until 1911, when the German rituals were exchanged for those printed in English.

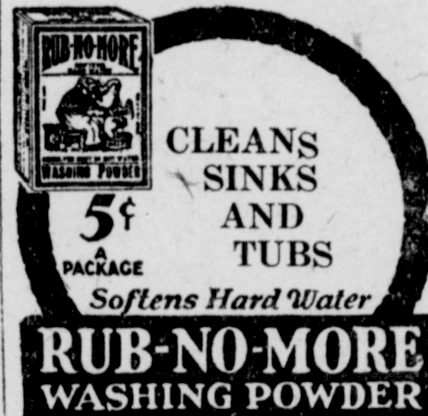

Meanwhile, on May 22, 1889, another tribe of Red Men was organized in Xenia, Red Jacket Tribe No. 118 with the following charter members: M. A. Broadstone, W. C. Bloom, Daniel A. Smith, Charles W. Whitmer, John Boots, H. C. Armstrong, H. Grotendick, William Dadds, Ed. Snell, John A. Fifer, E. A. Sanz, Adam Boots, Charles Phillips George Sanz, William Ellsberry, Wesley Owens, H. P. Lindsay, John A. Cisco, G. W. Jones, W. A. Simons, John Thomas, Harlan Powers, L. E. Spahr, William A. Richardson, H. C. Long, S. R. Bales, John R. Sutton, Reuben Canady, J. A. Carey, A. H. Spahr, W. A. Labron, Frank Smith, Coleman Heaton, Martin Ullery, C. F. Cretors, Samuel Rader, Clint Rader, Walter Campton and M. A. Walton.

Years later members of the two tribes realized the "hunting grounds" of Xenia in the Ohio "reservation" were not large enough to support two tribes and the consolidation was effected. Name of the tribe first on the "hunting ground," "Wahoo," was preserved.

MODISH MITZI—Not All Small Hats Are Of Felt

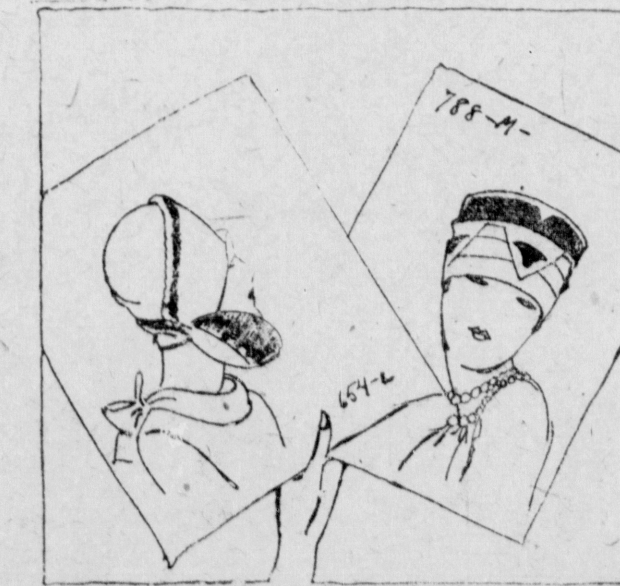

BY J. V. JAY

Mitzi reads her mail carefully. She is especially fond of reading the ads. Sometimes when she sees an envelope marked with the name of one of the stores she honors with her business she is fooled—she finds out that it was only a bill for Dad after all.

This being a rainy morning is an especially good time for reading ads. Two little books and an announcement of someone's opening. All about hats. All about silk and ribbon hats. Mitzi pours herself another cup of coffee to settle her nerves.

Hats always excite her so. And it really seems to be true that all small hats are no longer of felt. Simply swarms of them are of bolting cotton, of tulle, of bengaline or of crepe satin. A combination of ribbon in two tones is smart.

They are just as close fitting and even softer than felt. Nothing to pack. Nothing to wear. Just the minimum head covering in a pretty color. Not shapeless, no, but many of them carefully calculated to look so. Mitzi's going shopping today after all.

Editor, Gazette: "I got along without help. Let these people help themselves." We hear this comment occasionally. "It will do them good to hustle around a little and fight their own battles." Yes? Did you ever notice how much harder it is for a blind man to cross the street than for you? Why? Handicapped? Exactly! And so it is in a large per cent of the dependent families aided by the Social Service League, the wage earners have been struck down by sickness, accident or death. Even in good times these people often need help to keep their families together.

By relieving economic pressure upon them and the accompanying anxiety and fear, they may slowly be built up into independent people.

Do you know what it means to be losing the fight, when a little in time might set everything right? Do you know what it means—just the clasp of a hand—when a man's borne about as a man ought to stand?

Concrete pavement has a pleasing light gray color that dresses up any street

Property Owners of Bowling Green Like Concrete Streets

More than 3000 American cities and towns from one end of the country to the other have found concrete the ideal street pavement.

They know it withstands the pounding of heavy traffic and that it is always safe to drive on.

They know concrete does away with costly paving repairs.

The first concrete streets in Bowling Green, O., were built in 1914.

Maintenance has been practically nothing. The city now has sixteen concrete streets.

Experience has proved to Bowling Green people that concrete streets give greater value per dollar.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

The Theatre

There will be a "Tom show" at the Opera House, Thursday afternoon and evening.

The announcement carries with it the electric thrill that goes with the relayed shout, "the circus is coming."

Next to the circus, stands the "Tom show," or is it the other way around? "Abie's Irish Rose" is a source of amazement because it has been running continuously several years.

But think of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It has been played every season for fifty years and more and is still good enough to play the Victory at Dayton, if that is to be taken as a local standard of excellence, as many Xenia theater patrons seem to think.

Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote the book under the emotional strain that came with her deep feeling on the slavery question. Its production was so timely that it immediately became a "best seller."

Now, with the issues it represents dead and almost forgotten, the play has lost its deeper motive but still survives because it is good entertainment. As an entertainment, it is melodrama of the old and accepted sort, rich in pathos and charged with comedy relief that tempers the sadness that comes with the trials and vicissitudes of "Uncle Tom."

XIX. "THE KICK BACK"

The last exercise I gave you
was known as "Head Work." Today's exercise goes back to the
"High Back" which preceded that,
and is performed from a similar position.

Position: Lying on chest, arms
bent, hands resting on floor near
upper chest, palms down.

Exercise: With the legs straight
push body off floor, weight on arms. Now raise the toes from the floor.

This movement is merely another step after the "High Back."
In that your body was straight,
resting on hands and toes. The new exercise adds to this, the
raising into the air of both feet.
You will get a lot of fun out of this exercise, particularly when you try to get your toes off the floor with all weight on your hands.

The next exercise you will get
is called "The Sprinter."

STUDENTS WORKING
ON ATHLETIC FIELD

Weather permitting, work will be resumed shortly by students of
Central High School on Cox Memorial Athletic Field, according to
Superintendent H. C. Pendry.

Students have already started to re-seed the football gridiron and it is hoped the field will show a sturdy crop of grass by the opening of the grid season next fall.
Plans of changing the gridiron
to run east and west instead of
north and south were entertained
in order to provide a baseball diamond, but these have been discarded as impractical.

Central athletes will cavort at the north end of the field this spring in baseball practice.

How to stop BOILS!

There's only one way to stop boils. Stop the cause of boils! That's common sense—isn't it? All right. Boils thrive because the blood gets so weak in healthy, red cells that it can't throw off the impurities that get into the body. There's not enough rich, red blood to purify the system.

Now—S. S. S. builds back the blood to fighting strength. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells—builds them by the millions! Boils dry up!

S. S. S. is the thing. Impurities that cause boils and other skin eruptions can't stand up against the rich, healthy, red blood that S. S. S. builds. That's all there is to it.

Stop boils with S. S. S. It's the way. Get it at any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

PROBES ORIGIN OF FIRE AT RESIDENCE

Fire Chief T. B. Claire is investigating the origin of a fire which destroyed the shingle roof and a portion of the contents of the residence of Frank Dodds, E. Market St., Tuesday afternoon.

The chief is not positive the blaze started from burning soot falling on the roof from a chimney flue, but believes this is the most likely theory.

Damage caused by the fire is also being checked up and is expected to amount to more than $1,500.

The property is occupied by the Dodds family but is owned by Mrs. Frank McCloud, Dayton, formerly Miss Daisy Rossiter.

"Not Possible To Classify" By Mack Sauer

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Outside the city rumbles loud,
Inside, now humble, are the proud
To worship Him and sing and pray—
Who goes to church finds peace today.

The door, unlocked, is open wide
To all who care to step inside;
How fine if all would find their way
And rest inside a church today!

Who goes to church finds peace tonight
And joy in psalms that they recite;
The hymns will all their cares destroy,
A trip to church is a trip of joy.

From Seoul, Korea, comes to me a very interesting Korean magazine, with the following, which was written by Choi Hai about 1300 A. D.

"Last year the sun and rain turned out awry, and all the farmers failed to plant their seed. The world dropped down to starvation point, and faces looked through the lines of anxious care. This year again the spring broke endless dry and hands were folded in the scorching sun. The green moss in the well was shriveled up, and red blood marked the morning sky. Along the highways were the starved, the dead, and all the fields lay wasted, bare as bone.

I, in my little hut, lay long asleep, when suddenly I heard the sound of rain. I heard it patter on the famished court, and fall in gems from off the hanging eaves. I start, I awake, I rise in wonder wild. I fling the window wide and mad delight looks out upon the scene. Across the hill the willow tree tops shine, and laughing flowers awake along the lea. All things take on divest shade and fragrance fills the air. I know now that the mind of God thinks of the needs we mortals bear. Out go the ploughs, the harrows, hoes and spades, a promise of abundant crops to come. We thank God for a leaky hatch. I shall forget my hungry mouth and hungry stomach now.

Go to church Sunday. Tomorrow phone an ad.

It is planned to convert 176 acres of the farm into a huge reserve to be stocked with game. Members of the association believe if consent of the state officials can be obtained, development of the natural woodland, with its many interlacing glens and hollows would give Ohio its finest state park.

Consent of Truax and Thompson is only necessary before the state may make an appropriation to finance the project and make the game preserve and fish hatchery an actuality.

Officials are unanimous in the opinion their mission will be successful.

Since Ohio's ownership to the 500-acre Bryan farm is now unquestioned, the state is having the land filled. Various committees representing Ohio State University and other organizations are said to have been viewing the

WOMEN VOTERS MAY CONVERT FLAPPERS TO BE POLITICIANS

By MARK W. CHILDS
ST. LOUIS, April 14.—Conversion of the flapper to a politician of the importance of practical politics constituted the major problem on the program for discussion when the League of Women Voters met here today in its seventh annual convention.

Seven years ago a small group of determined women who believed that the millions just enfranchised by the women's suffrage amendment should be educated to vote intelligently met here to form the League of Women Voters.

Today delegates to the League—now a strong national organization, with branches in virtually every state in the union returned to consider action on a dozen or more major social problems and review the work of seven years at their annual convention.

Every train bore delegates from state and city branches of the League, now an important factor in the politics of the nation. All shades of opinion will be represented and out of the discussion will be formulated the program of the organization.

Members, as soon as they arrived, registered at convention headquarters and before nightfall close to 1,000 are expected. Conferences today are on "Efficiency in Government," led by Miss Belle Sherwin, national president, "Social Hygiene," "Women in Industry," "Child Welfare," "International Co-operation," and "Living Costs."

Perhaps the most interesting session of the five-day convention will be the effort to "convert" the flapper to a realization of the importance of "practical politics." Three women who are political "bosses" in their own localities, will speak. They are Miss Marie Wing, member of the Cleveland City Council, Mrs. J. Paul Goods, of Chicago, member of the Illinois legislature, and Mrs. John T. Pratt, member of the Board of Aldermen of New York City.

Another important session will be the mass-meeting devoted to the "Progress of International Co-operation Toward Peace," on Sunday. The speakers on that date will be Professor James T. Shotwell, Columbia University, and Chester Rowell, of the University of California, Berkeley, California.

The convention will conclude on Tuesday night with a mass-meeting on the "Political Problems of Economic Groups." Matthew Woll, vice president of the A. F. of L. will speak for labor, Ivy Lee, head of a publicity bureau that handles the accounts of many of the wealthiest firms and individ-

COUNTRY CLUB TO ELECT DIRECTORS

Annual stockholders meeting at the Xenia Country Club Wednesday evening will be featured by election of a new board of directors, which in turn will organize for the ensuing year by selection of officers, it is announced.

Officials say it is particularly urgent that all stockholders be present, and an invitation is also extended to all members of the club who are not stockholders to come.

After hibernating during the long winter months when the nine-hole course was cloaked with a thick covering of snow, local golfers are already beginning to swarm about the links daily.

Several holes are to be lengthened and greens re-located, it is said. Fairways are also said to be in the best of early-season shape.

P.A.
is pippin pipe
tobacco

THOSE fellows who get so much fun out of a pipe—don't envy them... emulate them! Get yourself a jimmy-pipe and a tidy red tin of Prince Albert. That's what they did, and look at them. Wearing smiles a mile wide. Puffing away on good old P. A. and happy as ducklings in their first rain-storm.

There's no trick about it... no deep, dark secret. P. A. is pippin pipe tobacco, made for pleasure and lots of it. Prince Albert is mellow as moonlight on a silent summer sea. Fragrant as a breeze that filters through apple-blossoms. Cool and sweet in a way that spells comfort to a pipe-smoker.

Not the least of P. A.'s virtues is the kindly way it treats a fellow's tongue. The Prince Albert process cut out bite and parch years ago, thereby opening the gates to smoke-peace for millions of men. No matter how hard you smoke P. A., there is no protest from your tongue or throat.

To make sure that you are not missing the full enjoyment of your pipe, go to the nearest tobacco shop and tell the man you want a tidy red tin of Prince Albert. He knows of hundreds of men that have found the enjoyment that's waiting for you. There's a revelation coming to you with a pipe—and P. A.

PRINCE ALBERT

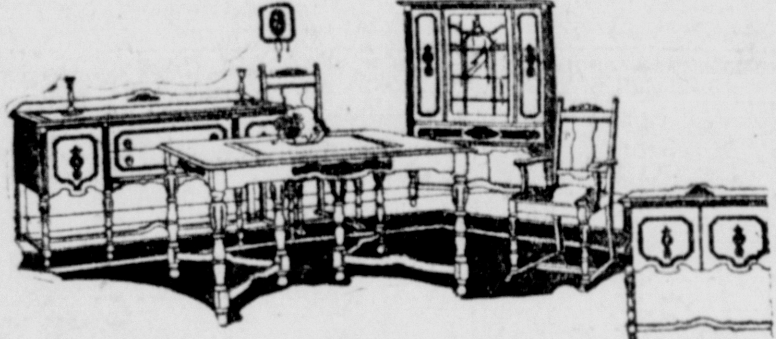

—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

GAS BUGGIES—For Sale—Brand New Antiques

UNAWARE OF AMY'S INTENTIONS OF ENTERING THE ANTIQUE BUSINESS, HEM AND PHINNEY PUT IN A BUSY DAY POLISHING UP HER HEIRLOOMS, BEFORE GIVING THEM TO HER.

DOG-GONE THE BOOB THAT INVENTED BACKSTAIRS!!—I MIGHT'VE BROKEN MY NECK!! I GOT STUCK SQUEEZING 'ROUND THE CORNER AND COULDN'T BUDGE—WHEN I BARKED MY KNUCKLES, IT MADE ME GIDDY---THE NEXT THING I KNEW I WAS IN FAIRYLAND!!

A BIG, BRAWNY BRUTE LIKE YOU LETTING A LITTLE CHAIR A HUNDRED YEARS OLD BULLY YOU, AND BOUNCE YOU DOWN THE STAIRS--WHERE'S YOUR BACKBONE?—I THOUGHT YOU WERE THE GUY WHO WORE PIANOS FOR WATCH CHAINS---GET UP! YOU'RE BLOCKADING THE STAIRS--

I MIGHT AS WELL FINISH THIS JOB AND RIP OFF THE REST OF THIS SEAT--THESE FUZZY OLD FLOWERS LOOK FUNNY, ANYWAY--WE CAN GET A NICE NEW ONE AT THE FIFTEEN-CENT STORE--

THE FURNITURE GAME MUST'VE BEEN FULL OF GRAFT IN THE OLD DAYS--THIS GOLDLEAF COMES RIGHT OFF WITH TURPENTINE, AND I'M GOING OVER IT EASY, TOO--I HOPE IT DON'T GET ON THIS TABLE--I JUST BOUGHT IT--COST TWO BUCKS--

HOW'S THAT FOR A FANCY LOOKING DESK? IT HAD A LOT OF GEW-GAWS ON IT BEFORE--TOO BAD THAT INLAID STUFF STILL SHOWS--IT WON'T TAKE THE STAIN--BUT LOOK HOW THE REST OF IT GLISTENS--AMY OUGHT TO BE PLEASED--!!

JUST LIKE A NEW ONE--WE SHOULD MAKE A BUSINESS OF IT--HEM AND PHINNEY, FIX YOUR FURNITURE TO FIT THE FASHION--
